It means that I bought a portion of the apartment, and effectively rented the rest from the housing association. I had saved for a number of years and had about \u00a330,000 saved for a deposit. I knew that I would really struggle to get a whole apartment by myself, as I was only earning \u00a336,000, and even if the banks would lend me 5x my salary, \u00a3180,000 would hardly get me a garage in London.

Under the London Help to Buy scheme, people buying a new-build home in Greater London can apply for an equity loan of up to 40% of the property's value. This means you can put down a deposit of 5%, borrow up to 40% of the property price from the government and take out a mortgage on the rest, potentially unlocking better interest rates and improving your chances of getting accepted by a lender.
